Budget Issues and Lake Park Facility Top Council Agenda

by Sandy Smith

The second public hearing on the proposed $15 million FY 2000 city budget was the primary focus of the May 24 Greenbelt City Council Meeting. The Council reviewed each change in the budget that had received a majority, but not unanimous, approval at an earlier work session. Most discussion centered around police compensation issues and use of city reserve funds to cover a shortfall of revenue to expenditures. The budget will be officially adopted at the June 7 city council meeting. Council also took up a number of other financial issues.

Police Compensation

A majority of council approved a $1.35 per hour increase in night differential, funding for an additional 15 master police officers, and an increase in the city contribution to retirement benefits. In arguing for these provisions, councilmember Thomas White stated that these were the top items on the list presented by the Fraternal Order of Police. He felt that the city should try to be responsive to the immediate needs of its rank and file police officers. Long-term salary, benefits and retirement compensation issues will be addressed later in a comprehensive study. Councilmember Rodney Roberts, however, wanted more detailed information on how the city compares with other local jurisdictions in terms of pay scale and benefits.

Presenting another viewpoint related to the overall budget status, councilmember Alan Turnbull thought that city reserve funds should not be used to cover a $44,000 budget shortfall caused by recurring expenditures. Greenbelt resident Sylvia Lewis echoed this concern, while City Manager Michael McLaughlin indicated that a number of one-time capital expenditures in this year's budget actually accounted for the shortfall and that these would not be expected in future years.

The adequacy of police staffing in Greenbelt also came up in the budget discussion. Last year, the city authorized hiring four additional officers; several others should be returning soon as well from absences caused by injury or other factors. Citizen Mat Amberg nevertheless thought that the size of the police force was inadequate to patrol the city properly and prevent crime. Mayor Judith Davis felt that the city should wait until the new officers are on board and the redeployment planned by the police chief takes place before making judgments on the need for additional police officers.

Public Works, Recreation and Parks

Council then reviewed proposed additions to the budget in public works, recreation, and parks. Council approved the acquisition of a materials storage shed, an expanded recreation brochure, a new scoreboard for Springhill Lake, additional cleaning staff and tables for the Community Center. Other items included support for winter basketball, a defibrillator for the Aquatics Center, irrigation heads to be rotated among the athletic fields,

Greenbelt Couple Peddling To Oregon This Summer

by Susan Newton

Today is Friday, May 28, do you know where Bill and Mary Clarke are? Well, if they are keeping with their schedule, they should be at Breaks Interstate Park in Southwestern Virginia.

Saturday, May 15, Mary and Bill Clarke of Greenbelt, peddled away on a 3-month bicycle trip to Florence, Oregon. They started the day with a bagel breakfast for friends and well-wishers. Then, leaving son Gregory and their 135-pound Bernese Mountain dog, they made their way to the New Carrollton Metro. After the train ride to Vienna, Va., the rest of the trip will be on two wheels.

While they have scheduled time out for fun, they will bike as much as 70 miles per day. Bill said the worst part of the trip would be going across the Blue Ridge mountains in Virginia. In order to climb the 15% grades he would have to peddle at 2 miles per hour. Mary interjected that the "lowest gear is always walking."

To train for their trip, Mary has been biking to her job at the

by Sabine Hentrich

She photographs, designs, draws, acts, writes, plays piano, teaches art workshops, and wins art awards - the list continues. The pastimes and accomplishments of a typical 12-year-old? Hardly. Jessica Mealey is a versatile student who lives in Greenbelt and attends Thomas G. Pullen Magnet School for the Creative and Performing Arts in Landover.

Recently, Jessica won a Gold Key award in the 1999 Regional Scholastic Art Exhibition, titled "Arts for Change," where she competed with approximately 3,000 students on a middle and high school level. Only 20 competitors received such an award. On February 17, the Prince George's County Schools Regional Scholastic Art Exhibition honored Jessica for her winning computer graphic work, "Café." The U.S. District Courthouse in Greenbelt hosted the award ceremony.

"Café" went on to a national scholastic art competition in New York, where Jessica won a Silver Key in the category of computer graphic representation of an original photograph. It is uncommon for a middle school student to win an award in this division. Her work is currently on display at the Maryland State Department of Education in Baltimore. The national award ceremony for the Scholastic Art & Writing Awards will take place at the Kennedy Center in Washington on June 19.

History of Project

Jessica's idea for her winning project took shape during a photography field trip with her middle school. She photographed a street café in Annapolis and subsequently, using a computer, experimented with its colors, shades, and shapes. Jessica remembers that she "had this idea to distort the picture by twirling its center around." Jim Lipiano, her art teacher, encouraged her to do this project. He helped her use an advanced computer graphics program.

Now an experienced computer graphics user, Jessica holds a workshop at Surrattsville senior High School in Clinton, showing other students how to use a scanner and computer graphics software to create images.

Drama is another passion of Jessica's. She enjoys acting and backstage work, especially lighting. She had the opportunity to run the spotlights for her school's performance of "Anastasia." Currently she is rehearsing a role at the Greenbelt Arts Center in an interpretation of Edward Lear's poetry. During this coming summer, she will attend a drama camp at Greenbelt.

Greenbelt Activities

Several of Jessica's achievements have occurred within the Greenbelt community. In 1995, she was Little Miss Greenbelt. Later she won second and third place for pastel drawings at the Greenbelt Labor Day Festival Arts Competition in 1997 and 1998, respectively. Jessica also enjoys creative writing, especially poetry, and recently submitted several of her poems to a newspaper.

"My mother told me I was always a creative kid," Jessica says. Carol Mealey, Jessica's mother, suggested Thomas G. Pullen School when she noticed her daughter's artistic talent. She enrolled Jessica for the school's kindergarten program. "When I was accepted, I jumped up and down," says Jessica. When she started middle school, which required a short proposal, Jessica did not hesitate to choose a major: visual arts.

Thomas G. Pullen School runs through 8th grade. After middle school, Jessica will apply to Suitland High Annex School.

Herbs, Herbs, And More Herbs

by Nelda Young

Where do you go if you have a question about herbs? Smile Herb Shop on Berwyn Road would be an excellent choice.

Tom and Linda Wolfe purchased this family-run herb shop for $200 in 1975 and have been operating it ever since. Tom is an herbalist and staffer Claudia Wingo is an Australian medical herbalist and a registered nurse. They are two of only 100 herbalists in the United States who are certified by the American Herbalists Guild.

On the weekend of June 12 and 13, a two-day 10 am-4 pm Seminar, "Introduction to Herbs and Advanced Practitioners Workshop" will be conducted by author and herbalist David Hoffman. Hoffman, author of the best-selling herb book in the world, "Holistic Herbal," lives in California but commutes twice a year to teach seminars at Smile. Saturday's topic is "Healthy Herbal Harmonal Balance," covering male and female reproductive issues, the prostate and thyroid. On Sunday, Hoffman will discuss "Plant Alchemy—Do you Know What's in Your Herbs?" There is a fee for the seminars.

Hoffman is the author of several books about herbs, as well as articles and papers in journals and magazines. He taught in England and was director of the California School of Herbal Studies.

Leroy Wilton is also a regular lecturer at Smile. After retiring from the Baltimore steel mills, Wilton, author of "The Herberman's Journal," found his calling in cultivating and teaching about the multiple uses of herbs. This "angel with a green thumb" is known for his warm personality, enthusiasm, plant skills, and the seminars he offers at Smile.

Smile Herb Shop presents an ongoing series of herb classes, including advanced therapeutic classes for health professionals as well as apprenticeships.

For more information on herbs, integrative medicine, class schedules and fees, drop by Smile Herb Shop on Berwyn Road in College Park or call 301-474-8791.

Youth Theater Shows Learical Evening

by Dennis Jelalian

The Greenbelt Youth Theater will present a Learical Evening (an original play with music based on the nonsense verse of Edward Lear) at the Greenbelt Arts Center for two performances only, June 5 and 6 at 2 p.m.

The show, which contains such Lear favorites as The Owl and The Pussycat and The Pelican Chorus, was written by Doug Love, Kay Andoque, and members of the company.

The cast features Erica Baca, LaTasha Braxton, Kristen Clermont, Trina Fisher, Michaela Haber, Jessica Mealey, Madeline Bell, Cecelia Bell, Jesse Crowley, Lucas Crowley, and Doug Love as Edward Lear.

Karen Mealey did the lighting design, and plays the piano. Jessica Mealey operates the lights. Ariela Haber painted the scenery.

One of the joys of working with young people is that there are always talented newcomers. This year's find seems to be Erica Baca. Look for future performances from this young woman.

City Recognizes Pedestrian Safety

Following last year's successful kickoff, the City of Greenbelt has again proclaimed the month of June as Pedestrian Safety Month. Throughout the month, "Greenbelt Celebrates Pedestrian Safety-Walk Smart/Drive Smart" banners will fly on Southway and at one of the city's more problematic crosswalks across from St. Hugh's School on Crescent Road. The banners are intended to make both pedestrians and drivers more aware of their responsibilities to assure pedestrian safety. They have been funded by the State Highway Administration.

In addition to the banners, the city will support several pedestrian safety activities. On Saturday, June 5 as part of the Greenbelt Day Weekend celebration, Greenbelt Volks-marchers will hold a 5k/10k walk and a 25k bike ride. The route for this walk will incorporate the city's underpasses and crosswalks. The city encourages use of these underpasses to enhance pedestrian safety. Participants may register between 8 a.m. and 1 p.m. at the Community Center. Those joining the walk will earn a patch. For information call Salva Holloman 301-937-3549.

The city will also run informative videos during the month on Municipal Access Channel B-10 that teach pedestrians and drivers how to make streets safer for pedestrians. In addition, weekly safety tips will be sent to local newspapers and posted on the city's web site at www.ci.greenbelt.md.us. Brochures on pedestrian safety will be made available all month at the Municipal Building, 25 Crescent Road. For more information, call Beverly Palau, Public Information and Communications Coordinator, 301-474-8000.

and partial funding for a curator for the Greenbelt Museum. Contributions to the Greenbelt Advisory Committee for the Visual Arts and other community groups wound up the list.

Lowell Owens, speaking on behalf of the Citizens to Conserve and Restore Indian Creek, requested financial support from Greenbelt for their efforts in protecting the wetlands. Owens indicated that College Park had already provided a $1,000 grant. He asked for a similar level of support from both Greenbelt and Berwyn Heights. He said he also hopes to involve the Springhill Lake community, which is adjacent to the wetlands, in future cleanup projects.

Councilmember Edward Putens raised the issue of support for political action groups. He asked the city attorney to make sure that the city could make such a contribution without supporting a particular political group.

One budget deletion of $9,000 occurred in savings in the purchase of a street sweeper after an agreement to share costs with New Carrollton, Berwyn Heights, and College Park.

Attick Park Restroom

Included in the current capital budget are $15,000 in funds for the preliminary design of a restroom facility at the Buddy Attick Park. This item had been recommended in the long-standing master plan for the park. Four responses had been received to the city's Request for Proposals. The city staff has recommended approval of the bid from Greenhorne & O'Mara, which had designed the master plan. Theirs was the lowest bid submitted for both the preliminary design phase and the more detailed design phase.

Councilmember Rodney Roberts objected to a facility with restroom and concession stand (as called for in the master plan), noting problems with the latter but agreeing that a restroom facility is needed. In additional discussion, McLaughlin indicated that this facility might be evolutionary and include a second story which might serve as a bandstand with restrooms below.

Mayor Davis indicated that another model might be like that in Schrom Hills Park, which includes a restroom and classroom area. McLaughlin indicated that a preliminary work session with the contractor would make the final decision on the scope of the design, in other words what type of facility the council and public want at the Lake Park.

Turnbull raised the question of whether past performance in this area would have given Greenhorne & O'Mara an advantage. He requested additional information on the other proposals, which he felt might have been dismissed because of the city's lack of knowledge or previous working experience with these other companies. To gain additional information on other bids and for background information from an earlier meeting as requested by White, council postponed action this issue until the next meeting.

Financial Reporting

New proposals for financial reporting by candidates for city council have been recommended by the city Board of Elections, which reviewed the issue following questions raised by Turnbull almost a year ago. The board recommended retaining the current requirement that specific donations of more than $25 be reported. They also recommended establishing a new requirement that candidates report a total figure for all donations received (including those of $25 or less).

The new requirements would also mean that candidates must appoint a treasurer, who would be responsible for submitting these reports. Several councilmembers were surprised that a treasurer was not a current requirement.

White agreed with the Board's recommendation, stating that he felt it provided a fuller picture of election financing and that it "was not only of interest but of educational value to other potential candidates." Mayor Davis suggested that "by authority of the Treasurer" be featured on campaign materials so that those who have questions would know whom to contact and that the materials would be appropriately authorized. City Attorney Robert Manzi indicated that that provision would bring the city in

Like Thomas G. Pullen, Suitland High focuses on visual and performing arts. Jessica eventually plans to turn her hobby into a career. Ideally, she would like to attend one of Boston's prestigious art schools — maybe even Harvard.

Even though Jessica has many hobbies and interests, her heart belongs to the visual arts, especially drawing and photography. She enjoys photographing cities, especially architecture. She likes exploring angle and height perspectives of large structures. "Taking pictures is my favorite thing to do because it just captures wonderful memories," says Jessica, who admires two artists both known as photographers and painters: Andy Warhol and Georgia O'Keeffe.

"I like doing art for fun," Jessica says, who does not necessarily have an agenda but nevertheless believes that art can bring about change. Jessica's future projects include a pencil drawing representing the Littleton massacre.

"The recent shootings and shooting threats that we've been line with county election rules. Council unanimously approved these new procedures which will be brought back for an official acceptance as a city ordinance at the next meeting.

Pick Up Trucks Authorized

In a final action of a financial nature, council approved a letter to solicit bids for the purchase of two new pick-up trucks for the Public Works Department.

NEW ROOT CANAL TECHNIQUES

Inside each tooth is the pulp which contains a variety of things including nerves, lymphatics and blood vessels. When this is traumatized or infected by decay, the death or necrosis of the pulp begins. Bacteria then produce pus and gases resulting in pain and swelling. To restore the tooth, the dead and infected tissue must be removed. This is accomplished by cleaning out the dead contents of the pulp chamber, and then destroying any remaining bacteria by instrumentation and flushing with medications. Because the chamber continues into irregular roots, cleansing can be complex. Additional canals off the main one also harbor dying tissue and bac-

Recently two major developments, the introduction of new instruments and the use of the operating microscope have made the procedure quicker, simpler and more effective. We now have the capacity to see the problem in addition to just feeling it with instruments. The result is greater success and more patient comfort.

getting, the people who are doing this, they need a hobby...they need to express themselves, and I think art is a really good subject to ex-

Festival Notes

Summer is fast approaching, and with summer come plans for the best Labor Day Festival ever. Committee President Barbara Ransom is organizing volunteers, gathering support from community businesses and organizations, and working with city staffers in an effort to create a team for the upcoming Festival. It takes the combined effort of all these people to achieve the smooth-running event that is enjoyed by everyone in the community.

The next meeting of the Labor Day Festival Committee will be held on Tuesday, June 22 at the Community Center. New volunteers are always welcome. Come out, get involved in the community and utilize talents to enhance the 1999 festival.

The Miss Greenbelt Pageant has been a major component of the festival since its inception, and community interest in the event inspires participation. All girls interested in taking part in the Miss Greenbelt, the Junior Miss or the Little Miss Greenbelt Pageants should contact Natasha Jewell at 301-352-8665 for more information.

Harvard researchers suggest that selenium might help prevent prostate cancer, as well as lung and colon cancers. Supplements may be recommended for those at high risk.

Doctors at Baylor College of Medicine are testing the use of Indonesian coral instead of bone for grafts in surgery to treat bulging, ruptured, or herniated disks in the neck. It works as well as bone, they say, and avoids the usual pain at the site of bone removal for autografts.

Digital mammography is said to offer clearer, more detailed pictures of some breast tissue, especially dense portions of the breast. Devices still await FDA approval.

For cases of severe depression, transcranial magnetic stimulation—delivering a mild magnetic pulse to part of the brain—may offer a new treatment alternative to electric shock therapy.

Early studies in New York suggest that recombinant human nerve growth factor may reverse symptoms of diabetic neuropathy.

PEDESTRIAN SAFETY TIP

GREENBELT CELEBRATES
PEDESTRIAN SAFETY
WALK SMART DRIVE SMART

PROBLEM:

When drivers concentrate on making turns, they sometimes fail to notice people in the street.

ADVICE:

When you are making a turn, don't concentrate only on traffic. LOOK for both traffic and pedestrians.

When you have a gap in traffic, LOOK both to your right and to your left to make sure there are no pedestrians in your path. What was an empty crosswalk when you first looked may now have a pedestrian in it. Continue to LOOK for pedestrians as you make your turn.

Since car door posts are wide enough to screen a pedestrian from your view as you turn, always LOOK around the posts to make sure there is no one in your path.

Remember that cars are much bigger and much easier to see than pedestrians. Always LOOK for pedestrians (and bicyclists too) and yield to them in the roadway.

Greenbelt Soccer Star Pereira Goes to NYU

by Nancy Boardman

Greenbelt's Jaime Pereira has committed to play soccer for New York University in the "Big Apple's" Greenwich Village. Pereira is a senior in Eleanor Roosevelt's Science and Technology program. This fall he was top scorer, with 13 goals, for the best soccer team in ERHS history (16-2). The Raiders won the county and regional titles and went on to the state semi-finals. Pereira was selected to the Journal's All County Boys Soccer Team after making headlines scoring the single and winning goal against the school's arch rival Bowie High, as well as the winning overtime goal against High Point, both of which were decisive games for the county championship. He also scored the winning goal in the regional finals.

Pereira's outstanding play for Roosevelt, along with his long history of Division I play in the Na-for three weeks where he will train in Sao Paulo with youth professional teams. He will be staying with seven other top Maryland players at the sports center of the University of Paulo. As a Portuguese-American, he is bi-lingual and will be a great help to the other American players in Portuguese-speaking Brazil.

Pereira looks back on his years growing up in Greenbelt (since age three) as special and good ones. He played soccer with the Greenbelt Boys and Girls Club since he was four. He also has played baseball and basketball on Greenbelt teams. He delivered the News Review for seven years. Currently he is the secretary of the Greenbelt Youth Advisory Committee.

Native Vegetation Discussion Set

Native trees, plants and aquatic vegetation around Lake Artemesia will be discussed by Maryland-National Park and Planning Commission gardener Brian Hall at 10 a.m., Saturday, June 12. For information, call 301-627-7755.

Camper Sponsorship Sought for Needy Kids

Each year the Prince George's County Office of Volunteer Services and Resource Development, in conjunction with the Department of Social Services, has provided camping experiences to children. Because these children come from households that are unable to pay the total cost for a camp session, sponsorships are required. Needed also are sleeping and duffle bags, toiletries, and monetary contributions. Contact Deborah Chadwick at 301-209-5018 to help.

Children's Play At Playhouse

The Emperor's New Clothes, a children's story, will be presented by the Prince George's Little Theater on June 11, 12, 18, and 19 at 8 p.m. and June 13 at 2 p.m. at the Publick Playhouse in Cheverly.

Terrapin Club Seeks Event Coordinators

The University of Maryland Terrapin Club's Prince George's County district has openings for members to join their steering committee which serves as the coordinator for all Terrapin Club social, sporting and special events in the district. The Club supports athletic and academic opportunities for talented student athletes through scholarships.

Current members or prospective members are not required to be Maryland alumni to join the Terrapin Club. Call District Chairman, Lyle Wolinsky, at 301-776-2464 if interested.

"The Diesel Delite" written and directed by Kathryn O'Sullivan—Set in a Manassas, VA, diner, "The Deisel Delite" is a delicious comedy about the July 4 reunion of a waitress and her ex-con beau. Casting: 1 white female, 20-27; 1 white male, 25-35; 1 African American female, 50+; 1 white male, 50+.

"Hidden in this Picture" by Aaron Sorkin (A Few Good Men), directed by John Degnan—A thoroughly amusing play in which a movie crew, over budget and out of time, is shooting the perfect final scene at sunset...Casting: 4 men, but women may be cast in one or two roles, 20-35.

"The Penal Colony" by James Riordan ("The Grand Prize"), directed by Kate Fairhurst—In "The Penal Colony," a stage adaptation of the classic Kafka story of the same name, is a psychological horror piece set in an unidentified prison camp. The play explores some warped philosophies that can lead to unspeakable acts of cruelty. Casting: 4 adult men, with possible extras; 1 musician—violin, viola, cello, or classical guitar.

"Suppressed Desires" by Susan Glaspell, directed by Leigh Green—This three-character comedy explores the hidden meanings of one woman's suppressed desires. Casting: 2 women and 1 man, mid-20's-mid-30s.

"Touch Me in the Morning," by Paul Donnelly, directed by Ron Wilder—This is a play about a dream of Jill and Peter on the eve of their wedding. Casting: 3 men, mid-20s-early 30s; 1 woman, mid-20s.

Our sympathy to Jim Williamson whose mother died in April. The family gathered by the lake at his parents' old home near Stone Mountain, GA for a remembrance on Sunday. Jim and his wife Mary Lou and the families of all six grandchildren, along with other relatives and friends, were present.

Greenbelters were saddened to hear of the death of Greenbelt Pioneer Harry Merriman.

Congratulations to University of Texas senior Suziann Reid, former Eleanor Roosevelt High School track star, who was named the 1998-99 winner of the Honda Award for the sport of track and field. The award honors the top collegiate female student-athlete in the sport. Reid is now eligible for the Honda-Broderick Cup, awarded annually to the nation's top female collegiate student-athlete. The Honda-Broderick Cup honoree will be announced on June 14 at the Collegiate Woman Athlete of the Year Banquet in Reno, Nevada.

Suziann enjoyed an undefeated 1999 season in her specialty event, the 400 meter. During this outdoor season, she ran in just two 400-meter events, but posted impressive victories in both. On May 1 she clocked a school-record 50.76 at the Texas Invitational, tying her with Australia's Cathy Freeman atop this season's world-best list. Two weekends ago, at the Big 12 Outdoor Championships in Waco, she won her second consecutive 400-meter conference title in 51.25 to lead Texas to its ninth straight outdoor team title. Overall she has won 12 straight 400-meter races.

Congratulations to Regina Nelson of Lakeview Circle, who received her bachelor of arts degree from St. Olaf College, Northfield, MI on May 23.

One of Mt. St. Mary's College LaCrosse team captains, Greenbelter Eric Jorgensen, helped lead the Mountaineers to one of its best seasons. Jorgensen started all 17 games and picked up an assist in a key win. The team won the Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference title with a perfect 8-0 record.

Greenbelters Win Odyssey of the Mind

by Nelda Young

Greenbelters Jill Lau, Yang Shan, Susannah Reed, and Maia McWilliam were among the 14 students from Glenarden Woods Elementary School who participated in the world competition of Odyssey of the Mind in Knoxville, Tennessee, during the last week in May.

Stanley Edwards' fifth graders finished tenth in the world and Isabel Bartholomew's 12-to-14-year-olds placed twenty-second. To qualify, both teams finished first in their age groups in the Maryland competition.

Odyssey of the Mind judges grade each seven-member team on their creativity in solving seven problems in the building and performing categories. The team members must listen, think creatively, cooperate, and follow the rules.

PEDDLING

EPA in the District 3 times a week. Bill has been biking 3 days a week including treks up the Lastner Lane hill right here in Greenbelt.

A trip such as this requires a certain amount of gear. They each have four panniers weighing 32 pounds. Besides warm clothing, water, and snack foods, Bill has a pump and tools for emergencies. Mary is taking along the necessities, like her lap top computer, digital camera and cell phone. Somewhere in Kentucky, they will pick up a trailer filled with camping gear for those occasions when they are unable to locate a "cheap motel."

After their arrival in Oregon, scheduled in August, Mary and Bill will take some time to rest and relax. The bikes will be shipped home and Mary and Bill will return to Greenbelt via the friendly skies.

The obvious question is "why are you doing this?" Mary replied, "It's something I've always wanted to do since college." Bill, however, is just going along for the ride.

A building problem from an earlier competition consisted of constructing a tower using balsawood and glue. The structure was then tested to see how much weight it could support.

A task in the performance category might be to create a character with an out-of-proportion feature, either a physical or personality characteristic. The challenge would be to show how a person can use that feature to help another person or species that shares the same feature.

Oretha Bridgewater, the principal of Glenarden Woods, is an enthusiastic supporter of the program.
